

Legacy Gift

Imagine being part of a marriage transformation story—years from now—because of a gift you prayerfully planned today. A legacy gift makes that possible. By including Three Cord Marriage in your will or estate plans, you help strengthen marriages, defend families, and extend hope to future generations.

The Impact of Your Legacy Gift

- Your generosity will live on, strengthening marriages and families for generations to come
- You may reduce taxes for your loved ones, stewarding your resources wisely
- You'll leave a legacy of faith, and family, investing in marriages that shape future generations

Making a Legacy Gift is Simpler Than You Might Think:

With the guidance of your attorney or financial advisor, you can include a simple provision in your will or estate plans to support Three Cord Marriage. Many people find this to be a meaningful way to align their faith, values, and love for family with lasting Kingdom impact.

There are several straightforward ways to include Three Cord Marriage in your plans:

Ways to Include Three Cord Marriage in Your Estate Plans

- Name Three Cord Marriage Inc. in your will or revocable trust (we can provide the specific language)
- Designate Three Cord Marriage as a full, partial, or backup beneficiary of a retirement account (IRA, 401(k), 403(b), or similar plan)
- Name Three Cord Marriage as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy

Common Ways to Structure a Legacy Gift

1. Specific Bequest

Leave a specific asset or dollar amount (for example, a set amount or a particular property).

2. Percentage Bequest

Leave a percentage of your estate (for example, 10% or 15%).

3. Residual Bequest

Leave a portion of what remains after other gifts and expenses are addressed. (e.g. 30% of the residue of your estate)
